About FAMLI

- Colorado’s Family and Medical Leave Insurance (FAMLI) program will ensure all Colorado workers have access to paid leave during certain life circumstances
- Approved by Colorado voters in November 2020 with 57% bipartisan support
- Ninth state-facilitated paid family medical leave program in the United States
- Colorado’s FAMLI program will be administered by the Division of Family and Medical Leave Insurance
About DLSS

- The Division of Labor Standards and Statistics (DLSS) interprets, issues guidance and gives presentations on, and enforces Colorado labor laws.

- This includes wages, health-related leave and whistleblowing, employee privacy rights, union-management relations, transparency in posting job and promotion opportunities, public contracting, and youth employment.

- DLSS investigates complaints of violations of these Colorado labor laws, both individual complaints and systemic investigations into workplace- or sector-wide violations.

How FAMLI interacts with FMLA

- FAMLI benefit has been designed to run concurrently with the federal Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA)
- FMLA provides unpaid leave, while Colorado’s FAMLI provides paid leave
- CDLE cannot provide guidance concerning FMLA, but we have asked the U.S. Department of Labor for additional guidance, which we will share with Colorado businesses once available
Local Governments

- The governing body of each Colorado local government must hold a vote during 2022 if they wish to decline participation in the FAMLI program.
- Votes can take place anytime during 2022.
- Each local government must notify FAMLI of its initial decision by January 1, 2023.
- For more information, refer to the “Preparing for FAMLI: Local Governments” fact sheet available at famli.colorado.gov.
Questions from employers

- Do I pay my employee when they are out on leave?
  - No. Similar to unemployment benefits, FAMILI is an insurance program. If FAMILI leave is approved for one of your employees, their wage replacement while they are on FAMILI leave is paid by the state, not by you. This provides your business with the flexibility to use those dollars to meet that need in whatever way makes sense for your business, whether that’s a temp, paying overtime to other employees, etc.
Questions from employers

● How will I know when they are taking leave, and when they will be back?
  ○ Like with unemployment, your business will be notified when an employee submits a claim for FAMLI benefits, if and when that claim is approved, as well as an estimate of when that employee is expected to return to work.

● Do I have to hold a job for them?
  ○ Yes. After 180 days of employment, FAMLI provides workers with job protection similar to FMLA.
Questions from employers

● How does FAMLI impact companies with employees across multiple states?
  ○ Companies will include all employees within their organization to determine if they have greater than 9 individuals. Employers will make their premium payment for Colorado based employees.

● How will FAMLI interact with other disability insurance programs offered by employers like Short-Term and Long-Term Disability insurance?
  ○ Employers can require FAMLI benefits to run concurrently with the employer's disability insurance so long as the employer provides written notice to employees of the requirement.
